Introduction

RB Hi, I'm Richard Baron. I'm back at Aberdeen College where I used to study HND Creative Industries Television.

Talking About His Uni-link Experience

RB I decided to study at Aberdeen College as they offer 'Uni-link' courses. This means that the two years of study at College count towards the four year degree programme I took on at RGU in my case Media Studies.

I took a year out from school and worked full-time before going to College to help support myself financially. I kept this job on part-time whilst studying at College. Although, there are student grants available to help out with things like student accommodation amongst other things.

To be honest, the experience was great fun. I met a great bunch of people, made real good friends and have attained skills which I use on a regular basis at university.

A good grounding from Aberdeen College is necessary for anyone interested in working in media. I found that the equipment for the video production course at College to be one of the best, if not the best in Scotland.

They have really encouraged and inspired me to become what I am now.
